BESKRIVELSE

Town planning in Denmark is a guide comprising 27 examples of Danish town planning. The guide is aimed at secondary education, university students, tourists, politicians, planners and other groups interested in town planning. The guide is published in cooperation with Dansk Byplanlaboratorium. Each town planning example includes maps, illustrations and photos. The introduction presents the history of town planning in the post war years. In addition, the guide includes timelines and perspectives for future developments. Methodsheets A number of methodsheets expanding on different perspectives on town planning are available. These are aimed at gymnasie- and first year university students. The material will be available at www.dac.dk and www.byplanlab.dk
